Guest facilities: In the early days, Yellowstone's visitors began their park exploration at Mammoth Hot Springs, named after the steaming travertine terraces just above the hotel area. Today, Mammoth Hotel offers a warm welcome to summer and winter visitors. Elk routinely graze outside the hotel around the parade grounds of what was once Fort Yellowstone. In winter, Mammoth is accessible by car and is a hub of snowy adventures, offering Nordic skiing, snowshoeing, ice skating, and a launching point for a variety of unique over snow explorations of the park's interior. The hotel, built in the 1930s and renovated in 2019, has a beautiful lobby area, guest rooms, a gift shop, and the "Map Room", which displays an amazing inlaid-wood map of the United States. Guest cabins are located behind the hotel. A fine dining room, lounge, and fast-food operation are located in a building across from the hotel.

Employee facilities: Employees live in Aspen, Spruce, Juniper, Lodgepole or the Terraces. Two or three residents are assigned to each room. Aspen is a two-story, 50 room facility; rooms have semi-private bathrooms. Spruce (22 rooms), Juniper (49 rooms), and Lodgepole (33 rooms), are all two-story facilities with community bathrooms. All four residences have a lobby area, laundry room, and payphone. The Terraces is a second-floor residence hall located above the dining room. This area has a community bathroom, payphone, and laundry facilities. An Employee Recreation Hall with workout equipment and a sports court is located behind the Mammoth Hotel. Employee RV sites are located in Gardiner, MT. The Employee Dining Room (EDR) is located in the same building as the guest dining facilities.

Mammoth is located only five miles inside the north entrance of the park (Gardiner, Montana). As you drive, bike, or hike the main road or the "old road", you may be lucky enough to catch the bald eagle watching over the Gardner River from the "Eagle Tree", see some deer or pronghorn antelope, or see some resident bighorn sheep along canyon walls. There is plenty to see and do! We are sure you will enjoy it all.
